

SSP Professional Services

Helping you through the challenges of the insurance market.

SSP delivers at every level of insurance and understands the key challenges you face.

Your challenges.

The growth of internet-enabled, multi-channel distribution. Evolving customer demands. Industry consolidation and increased regulation. These factors and more contribute to a more challenging environment, in which traditional business models and IT strategies struggle to compete.

Very simply: the insurer that stands still will get left behind. To move ahead of the times, you'll need a partner with the expertise and experience to help you develop a winning strategy to thrive in this challenging market.

Your solution: SSP Professional Services.

SSP's service is based on many years' experience in the industry, helping you respond to market changes, keep a competitive edge, and above all, turn challenges into opportunities.

We're a pragmatic company with worldwide experience in insurance and IT, across the spectrum of size, age, geography and supply chain. Backed up by our robust project management approach, The SSP Way, we can apply our collective talent to your challenges and deliver effective solutions.

The SSP advantage.

Diverse resources: Our resources touch all parts of the globe and all parts of every project. With experts including Business Consultants, Solution Architects and Project Managers, alongside a large off-shore development centre, we can provide smart solutions whenever, wherever.

Small to large: SSP delivers at every level of insurance and understands the key challenges you face. We know how to adapt a solution to your needs, however small or large.

Total solutions to tailored components: SSP has experience of delivering entire solutions that cater for every facet of your operation, through to specific point solutions for targeted requirements.

From start-up to regeneration: SSP has helped insurers across the globe get off the ground, as well as 'transplanting' core systems – transforming your ability to react to market demands and perform more effectively. We can manage programmes that cover the complexity of data migration, change management, systems integration and tailored development.

From manufacture to retail: We cover the production of a world-class web solution, the implementation of an entire administration platform and more. We know the challenges of dealing with complex distribution and the need to interact effectively. Consequently, we can provide professional services across the entire spectrum of the insurance supply chain.

Performance without the drama.

We've delivered successful projects to clients in 50 countries across five continents.

Global capability: We can effectively apply our collective talent to problems and opportunities across the globe – from Asia-Pacific to the United States. Projects spanning four continents are not uncommon for us.

Seamless data migration: Evidence and experience show that data migration is one of the biggest headaches facing any insurer looking to implement new solutions. It sits on the critical path for most complex projects. SSP Data Services, as part of our offering, can simplify data migration and support a variety of methods of switching platforms.

Across technologies: SSP has delivered projects on AS400 systems in RPG, on DB2 and Oracle databases using Java, and solutions encompassing the entire Microsoft technology stack. We can therefore deliver solutions across a broad technology spectrum, working with architects and designers across each discipline.

Key benefits.

- Collective knowledge: With over 750 talented people, we can call on expertise covering a diverse range of projects, so you not only tap into the knowledge of the person on the front line, but the collective knowledge of the entire team – with an average experience of over 10 years for each of our people.
- Time to benefit: The experience that we've gained means that we can deliver solutions that are proven in the real world – and developed faster from a position of unrivalled knowledge across all lines of business.
- Risk reduction: Our expertise, gained through addressing thousands of our customers' challenges, means that we know the pitfalls and advantages of various approaches and so can plot the path of least risk.
- Hassle-free projects: We understand the technical nuances of the insurance world in every incarnation. That's why we've delivered successful projects to clients in 50 countries across five continents.
